

bandlow / September 18, 2013 11:20PM

Two Column Design

Hello I need a little bit help with my new Layout.
Here my structure.

```
Header 100%
Div Wrapper
Div Left 70%
Div Right 30%
/Div Wrapper
Div Footer 100%
```

I want to add a second column div container. The output from statistic or online user modules should be run into the footer div (full width). But there is only a hook before footer, the output places between div left und div right.

Skinny / September 20, 2013 04:34AM

Re: Two Column Design

Hello, I'm not sure what you are asking, sorry. Can you do...

```
Header 100%
Div Wrapper
Div Left 40%
Div Middle 30%
Div Right 30%
/Div Wrapper
Div Footer 100%
```

If you look in the templates you will see things like {NAME->info} so you could set `$PHORUM['DATA']['NAME']['info2'] = $your_output;` in your PHP file, and then use {NAME->info2} in the same template you found {NAME->info} assuming your PHP code is in the right spot for use in the template. Just be sure info2 isn't already used to avoid overwriting some variable.

Not sure if that is what you are asking.

bandlow / September 25, 2013 12:21PM

Re: Two Column Design

Thank you,
i write a new module to wrap the new column.
