

artisites / July 10, 2006 11:04AM

javascript breadcrumbs

hey phorum

a read on a hack a while ago one of the devs had a mod that read url paths and took away the slashes etc to display a clickable breadcrumb path.

anyone remember what am talking about, and have a link to it? (not phorum specific i dont think)

many thanks!

Maurice Makaay / July 10, 2006 11:23AM

Re: javascript breadcrumbs

I guess you mean the You Are Here module. It's unclear to me why you are talking about javascript breadcrumbs though. You don't need javascript for implementing breadcrumb navigation.

Maurice Makaay

Phorum Development Team

my blog linkedin profile secret sauce

artisites / July 11, 2006 06:25AM

Re: javascript breadcrumbs

nah, i saw that.

i don't need the hack for my version of phorum, i just want that file!

the javascript file was attached to the post of another hack, and the dude definately said it read the url and removed the extra characters to display links as clickable breadcrumbs...

Thomas Seifert / July 11, 2006 07:17AM

Re: javascript breadcrumbs

no idea what you are talking about.

simple fact is that, like maurice told above, there is no need to use any javascript for breadcrumbs navigation.

Thomas Seifert
