

Phorum Support Forums / 5.1 Phorum Hacks

can i call a php file instead of using a .tpl file?

gavin / April 14, 2005 06:31PM

can i call a php file instead of using a .tpl file?

Hi,

i'm working on a forum for a client, whoes site contains a PHP page header and a page footer which must be usable by several different languages. Here's the question:

Which file in phorum 5.0.15a calls the .tpl files, and how can I switch this to a file in the root called /top.php?

Thanks,

Gavin Burton

pinging www.geek.com with 32 bytes of data:

```
0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101
0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101
0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101
0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101 0101
```

Thomas Seifert / April 14, 2005 06:38PM

Re: can i call a php file instead of using a .tpl file?

don't do this. just include the php in the templates directly. you can use all the php in there.

Thomas Seifert

Phorum Development Team / Mysnip-Solutions.de

Custom Phorum and general software development
worry-free Phorum Hosting

CBiLL / April 14, 2005 10:52PM

Re: can i call a php file instead of using a .tpl file?

What ts77 said ... use php include to call other files ..

I use it on my Phorum without any problems to call the headers and nav bar and the footer into phorum so the site share the same look and feels without having to update Phorum's tpl ..

Bill
