Breadcrumb question.

On the site I'm working on we previously had a folder structure where forums were within folders. I've now deleted those folders and only have the forums we want. That worked fine. But the folder we used to have is still showing as a breadcrumb on the forums that used to be contained within that folder. Any tips on deleting that old folder name from appearing as a breadcrumb?

Update all of the sub forums that were moved, scroll to the bottom and hit submit/save.

In the Admin, go to Database Integrity, select "Rebuild forum paths" checkbox. Submit/save

Clear the cache completely.

You may need to do it manually, which is why I use the .cache folder in the Phorum install directory instead. You may not have access to the host supplied cache directory.

Just "Rebuild forum paths" worked on that one. Didn't need to clear cache on that. Thanks for the help!
