lines defining threads

i use threaded view with the emerald theme color modded. i was wondering if there is a way to put a line after each posted topic.

i don't want it to show the line after each reply. just after the main topic.

Please check out my similar solution here: [www.phorum.org]

You should be able to easily adapt it to remove the internal lines (hint: look at removing the top/bottom borders for regular td's in the css.tpl file).

ok does that use the default border color? if so is there a way to give it a color other than that. i don't use borders at all or what i should say is that i have the borders the same color as the background so you don't see them.

Its all in the css.tpl. If you want the color changed, change it in the css.tpl file.

Re: lines defining threads

first off Thank You! i get into things and i'll forget to say it in the css.tp

```
#phorum table.list td.alt_thread {
background-color: {alt_background_color};
border-top: 5px solid {border_color};
}
```

```
#phorum table.list td.thread {
border-top: 5px solid {border_color};
```

can i just give it a value for the color like #000000 or can i point it to say the default text color? and which do i change? forgive my ignorance in this it's all new to me.
