Language: Danish/Dansk

Update 2010.04.10

Currently I can't recommend using the language file uploaded by Taygoo. It renders the admin page blank because of a header problem. Also the double quotes should have been left alone, besides from making it very difficult to create a clear diff (in order to compare the grammar etc.), it also changes the way the original language file looks like.

Update 2009.01.16

I have added the corrections made by user "t00hey".

Update 2008.12.03

I have made a small update today. I discovered the missing word "again".

I have translated the language file into danish from the original english file.

The danish language file is in UTF-8 format.

In case you edit the file, you must open and save it in UTF-8.

Any suggestions for better word usage, please let me know.

Hello Kim

Nice to have the translation, I had started it myself, but still had a long way to go:-)
