

christoph / March 04, 2004 06:32PM

Collapse/Expand with JavaScript

hi,

i searched the whole web for a hack, but I couldn't find it. maybe someone can help me:
is there a hack which shows the phorum-overview in a collapsed views and expands the thread with a click on the '+' ?

I have right now so large threads that the expanded-view is horrible, but my users want to "preview" the threads and answers easily - so I look for the mentioned hack...

I don't know if you understand what I mean, but I hope so :)

thanks a lot !!

chris

dom / September 12, 2004 02:57PM

Re: Collapse/Expand with JavaScript

there is a tiny JS controlling the display property of an element. here is an example.

JS:

```
function ouvrir(cebloc) {
  styleObj = document.getElementById(cebloc).style;
  if (styleObj.display=='none') {styleObj.display = "";}
  else {styleObj.display = 'none';}
}
```

HTML:

```
display text
text
```
